 (same pixel data copied to these paths; older stills may remain)

Created: 15 September 2026 (design studio with hull plans and model)

Project: umitech-marine-rebuild (UMITECH MARINE website)

Origin: AI-generated image, created in Cursor from a written prompt (drafting table, hull blueprints, cargo-vessel scale model, shipyard through the window) for Naval Architecture paths.

This is NOT a stock photograph.

It was not downloaded from Unsplash, Pexels, Pixabay, Shutterstock, Adobe Stock, Getty Images, or any other stock library.

There is no photographer, model-release number, or stock invoice.

1. What this notice is

This file records how Naval.jpg was made and grants the project owner permission to use it on the UMITTECH MARINE website, to the extent Cursor's terms for generated images allow that use.

This notice does not replace Cursor's Terms of Service.
Those terms control what you may do with generated images.
This notice does not create rights that Cursor did not grant.

2. Grant (project use)

The owner of this repository may:

- display the image on umitech.co.jp and related UMITTECH MARINE sites
- include it in static exports, deploys, and backups of this project
- crop, compress, or resize it for web use
- use Naval.jpg on the homepage services grid and Naval-Architecture-Services.jpg on the Services Naval Architecture section (identical still)

The owner may not:

- sell the image as a stock photo
- claim a third-party stock license (Unsplash, Getty, etc.)
- claim the plans are official class or shipyard drawings
- claim a real named vessel or shipyard is shown

3. Credit

No photographer credit is required.
Optional credit: "AI-generated image for UMITTECH MARINE."

4. No warranty

The image is provided as-is. It may contain artefacts or incidental resemblance to real ships or yards by chance.

The project owner is responsible for checking Cursor's current terms and for any legal review before public use.

5. Not legal advice

This is a project record, not a certificate from a stock agency and not legal advice. For a licensed stock photo with an invoice, download from a stock library instead.
